

Newsletter Nov 7, 2001

HELLO INTELLIFANS!

The latest from the world of Intellivision: Intellivision Rocks is in stock, Intellivision is coming to wireless, another Intellivision song is available for free downloading, there's a new t-shirt, and...a trivia contest!

INTELLIVISION ROCKS ON SALE NOW!

The long awaited Intellivision Rocks collection is finished and ready to ship! This CD-ROM features over 30 classic Intellivision games, including those released by Activision (Beamrider, Dreadnaught Factor) and Imagic (Microsurgeon, Truckin'), along with the games for the Intellivoice (B-17 Bomber, Bomb Squad) and the Entertainment Computer System (Mind Strike, World Series Baseball). There are new interviews with the programmers, Intellivision vs. Atari television commercials, audio from never-finished voice games, and many more cool surprises. All for only $29.95 plus shipping and handling!

Order before December 9 to ensure delivery by Christmas!

Order here: <http://www.retrotopia.com>

COMPARE THIS!

A bonus of the Intellivision Rocks CD-ROM is that you can put it into your audio CD player to hear music inspired by the Intellivision system. For a preview, check out "Compare THIS," by electronica artist Confusium. The pulsating music track features the voice of Intellivision spokesman George Plimpton, sampled from his famous commercials. You can dance to it; you can laugh to it. And the MP3 download is FREE!

Listen: <http://www.mp3.com/intellivision>

INTELLIVISION CALLING!

Next time you're waiting at a restaurant or in an airport, wouldn't you like to turn on your cell phone and play a game of Astromash or Night Stalker? Soon you'll be able to! Intellivision Productions has partnered with THQ Wireless to bring the classic Intellivision games to wireless phones and PDAs. The first game, Astromash, will be available for downloading to select Motorola phones by Christmas.

More info: <http://www.intellivisionlives.com/wireless.shtml>

NEW RUNNING MAN T-SHIRT

At the 2001 Classic Gaming Expo in Las Vegas, we introduced a new t-shirt design in the Intellivision booth. It features the Intellivision Running Man in space, arcade, sports, and battle games. Even if you missed the show, you can still get the shirt – it's a beauty!

Check out the shirt: <http://www.retrotopia.com>

THE INTELLIVISION TRIVIA CONTEST!

For those of you waiting for the answer to the trivia question from our previous newsletter (December 2000), here it is: Which products (some never released) were code-named BIG MAC, COFFEE, LUCKY, CHESS and DANDELION? In order: Intellivision II, Intellivision III, The Entertainment Computer System, Aquarius II, and a joystick controller for the Intellivision II. Christopher Clark was randomly selected from the 23 of you found the right answers. Christopher won a Gravis GamePad Pro.

Now try this question:

The composer of the music for the Intellivision game Thin Ice went on to fame within the game industry. Who designed his trademark suit?

Go to the official entry page and submit your answer:

http://www.intellivisionlives.com/contest_closed.shtml

We'll pick a random winner from all complete, correct entries received before NOON PST, MONDAY NOVEMBER 12. The winner receives a USB Gravis GamePad Pro--works with Intellivision Rocks!

GOOD LUCK!

THE BLUE SKY RANGERS
INTELLIVISION PRODUCTIONS, INC.

<http://www.intellivisionlives.com>
comments@intellivisionlives.com

Powered by List Builder

©Intellivision Productions, Inc.
comments@intellivisionlives.com