

Greetings VIP Edition Customers!

Today we held a virtual Intellivision Amico Special Event. The event was jam-packed with never-before-seen gameplay, new game reveals and updates from our teams around the world. We revealed exciting licensing and retail partnerships, and even showed a world premiere of the Amico-exclusive Earthworm Jim sequel! If you missed the event, it's available to view here.

Our vision of family-friendly multiplayer fun resonated with so many people that we've received an unprecedented number of Amico pre-orders. I want to express my heartfelt gratitude for your early support and commitment to our mission -- it has motivated me and the team so deeply. With utmost respect, I want to update you directly about our launch.

Three years ago when we embarked on this journey, I set a launch goal of October 10, 2020. Earlier this year, we, like you and the rest of the world, began experiencing the unprecedented impact of this global pandemic. Over these past few months, we fought and pushed to hit our deadline, but we found ourselves facing compromises on quality that we were just not willing to make. As a result, we made the decision to shift Amico's target launch date to April 15, 2021.

We have a lot of work ahead amidst an ever-changing situation, but we remain steadfast in bringing family fun back to gaming with Intellivision Amico's launch. Nothing is more important to me and the Amico team than putting out a quality product that you're going to love. We'll get through this difficult period and I sincerely thank you for your continued support and interest in Amico.

Until we're together again!

Tommy Tallarico
