Intelligent Television

The most exciting entertainment system
since television itself.

A totally new concept in home entertainment

If your notion of TV games is two "bats", a "ball" and the odd bleep, think again.

Because Intellivision is absolutely nothing like that.

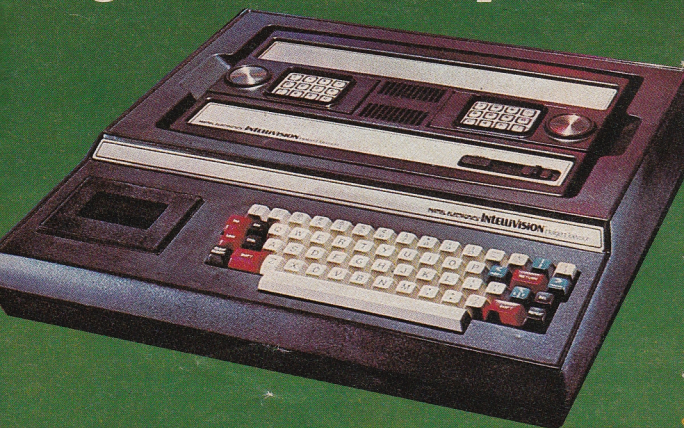

For a start, we guarantee you'll never get bored. That's not only because Intellivision's range of games is nothing short of staggering. With unlimited scope for future development.

But also because the games themselves involve a degree of sophistication you'd associate more with advanced aeronautics than home entertainment.

And that makes them more authentic. More skilful. And much, much more enjoyable than other types of TV game.

But don't take our word for it. Try out new Intellivision for yourself. There are demonstration units at leading stores throughout Australia.

Intellivision grows with you

As an optional extra* a supremely sophisticated keyboard component is planned. It'll turn your Intellivision into an easy-to-use home computer with a vast number of possible functions. Learn languages, develop personal exercise programmes, plan your family budget — the choice is endless. You'll even be able to talk to the computer. *Not available before 1983.
